

Chad Gabrielson and Jay Reishus

Chad Gabrielson and Jay Reishus, owners/partners of Agri-Technology Partners, LLC provide installation of control systems for potato storages and installation of liquid controls for liquid fertilizer plants throughout the United States and China. They partner with farmers and Co-ops of any agricultural business to bring the latest industry standard to the farm. Agri-Technology Partners, LLC provides customers with facts and several solutions depending on price and return on investment.

"Being a small business owner, the sources are limited. We are so thankful the SBDC is available to help. We had a great experience with the SBDC's professional business consultants because as we grow, it is increasingly important to have a business plan and knowledgeable resources like the SBDC's professional business consultants," said Chad. In addition, the SBDC's professional business consultant's assisted with guidance and support throughout the business plan process. The SBDC also assisted us with marketing and website development. Currently, the SBDC's professional business consultants are assisting Chad and Jay's business by helping their business grow nationally, as well as internationally.